

Soil Sponge Care

- Keep sponge wet but not dripping.
- You may add a loose cover to slow down evaporation.
- Do the seeds germinate faster in a light or dark spot? Try either or both.
- Will the plants keep growing? Try placing sprouts in real soil, either outside or inside by a window. Lift sprouts off sponge, or plant both sponge and sprouts.

© 2020 Anna Van Devender

Nature to You © 2020 Anna Van Devender

Soil Sponge Care

- Keep sponge wet but not dripping.
- You may add a loose cover to slow down evaporation.
- Do the seeds germinate faster in a light or dark spot? Try either or both.
- Will the plants keep growing? Try placing sprouts in real soil, either outside or inside by a window. Lift sprouts off sponge, or plant both sponge and sprouts.

Nature to You

Soil Sponge Care

- Keep sponge wet but not dripping.
- You may add a loose cover to slow down evaporation.
- Do the seeds germinate faster in a light or dark spot? Try either or both.
- Will the plants keep growing? Try placing sprouts in real soil, either outside or inside by a window. Lift sprouts off sponge, or plant both sponge and sprouts.

© 2020 Anna Van Devender

Nature to You © 2020 Anna Van Devender

Soil Sponge Care

- Keep sponge wet but not dripping.
- You may add a loose cover to slow down evaporation.
- Do the seeds germinate faster in a light or dark spot? Try either or both.
- Will the plants keep growing? Try placing sprouts in real soil, either outside or inside by a window. Lift sprouts off sponge, or plant both sponge and sprouts.

Nature to You

